Attention Mr. Fulton

Dear Mr. Fulton,

Pursuant to our conversation of yesterday I am enclosing a statement issued by the Rohm & Haas Co. to its employees and those of Resinous Products & Chemical Co. and the Charles Lennig Co.

You will note that on the last page the company says it has paid no 1941 royalties "to Germany on 1941 sales". There are two observations I made with respect to this: 1941 sales have, obviously, not been completed, and the expression "to Germany" is vague and indefinite and does not cover such a situation as payments to the Goldschmidt subsidiary in New York, or indirect payments, such as by way of Switzerland.

On next to the last page I have marked several places which show that the company admits the continuing of royalty payments - "...the royalty is a low one"..."Patent rights were purchased for which royalty is paid."

I believe that I neglected to give you the names of the editor and managing editor of CLICK, to whom Mr. Kelton recently admitted the continuing payments of royalties. They are Mr. Robert Rogers and Mr. Allen Chase. Both can be reached at 400 N. Broad St., Philadelphia, Pa.

In the event the committee changes its mind and looks into this situation, I hope it will see fit to credit CLICK with calling the matter to the committee's attention and offering to provide witnesses and documentation.

Yours truly,

Harold Weisberg
